

Abstract of Disclosure

Printed self illuminating color pixel circuit is printed micro wiring forming a circuit that in essence lights up and turns off to form different forms of display especially “High Definition Television” screens. Making printed screens affordable to the world population.